The professional system, as established in the university, has never been efficient. Some of the professorship and lectureships are annual offices, and them, with others which are not animal, are all likely for personalities than is accepted by other duties, and besides this, the lectures of the professors are no sufficiently connected with the information of such as are looking for currently honours or degrees. The education of the students in arts is in broad almost extensive study of these of the junior fellows who ever cruise the functions of tutors.
